For those clients where Fisher Investments Europe Limited (FIE) serves as manager and FI serves as sub-manager, FIE's management fee will be set out in the client agreement and charged directly by FIE. A portion of such management fee will be paid by FIE to FI for its sub-management services.

For those clients where Fisher Investments Japan (FIJ) serves as manager and FI serves as sub-manager, FIJ's management fee will be set out in the client agreement and charged directly by FIJ. A portion of such management fee will be paid by FIJ to FI for its sub-management services.

For those clients where Fisher Investments Australasia (FIA) serves as manager and FI serves as sub-manager, FIA's management fee will be set out in the client agreement and charged directly by FIA. A portion of such management fee will be paid by FIA to FI for its sub-management services.

FI may negotiate certain fixed rates with clients that can apply to all asset levels. Certain clients who become clients of FI as a result of its merger and acquisition activities may retain their prior fee schedules and therefore pay higher or lower fees than other FI clients. FI may agree to offer certain clients a fee schedule that is lower than that of any other comparable clients in the same investment style. FI may also choose to waive all or a portion of our negotiated fee for a given period. FI may commit that it has provided and will continue to provide certain clients the lowest available fee for a particular investment style and for comparable clients.

Fee Billing

Unless otherwise specified in the Investment Management Agreement between FI and a client (“IMA”), the following section lays out FI’s basic procedure for billing FIIG clients.

Investment management account fees are normally based on a percentage of total assets managed for long positions. For accounts invested in the Long/Short strategy, investment management account fees are based on the combined market value of the separate long and short positions (short positions do not reduce the value of long positions for this purpose), less the credit or proceeds received from the short sales that are not reinvested. Fees may be calculated monthly, but generally fees are calculated quarterly, based on the market value using closing prices at quarter end, at one-quarter of the annual rates listed above. The billable market value includes accrued interest and/or dividends. Generally, fees are billed and paid after they are earned.

Fees for the initial billing period will generally be calculated based on the number of calendar days from the initial performance date until the end of the quarter at which a fee is calculated and billed unless otherwise specified in the IMA. A fee will not be calculated and billed at the end of a quarter for which there are no assets in the client’s account. Unless specified in the IMA, the net of contributions and withdrawals made in any day that are equal to or greater than $50,000 will be prorated if the fee adjustment is greater than .0025% of the client’s quarter-end assets under management by FI and the fee adjustment is greater than or equal to $100. For fees that are calculated monthly, the fee adjustment must be greater than .00083% of the client’s month-end assets under management and the other criteria must still be met.

Unless otherwise specified in the IMA, a client may terminate relations with FI at any time by notifying FI in writing. At such time, FI will bill the client for services already rendered, prorated through the calendar day prior to the date of termination, unless otherwise specified in the IMA. Since FI does not bill in advance, a refund of fees is not applicable.

Other Fees

Clients will incur fees in addition to the management fee paid to FI, as stated above. Such fees can include brokerage commissions, other custodian fees, and expenses for investing in exchange-traded funds or structured notes. Retirement plan clients using the Personalized Retirement Outcomes services will also pay fees to plan administrators, record keepers, or other technology providers. FI does not earn any of the foregoing fees. Please refer to the Brokerage Practices section below for additional information on how FI selects brokers.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

FI may accept performance-based fees for clients who specifically request it if appropriate. Performance-based fee arrangements permit FI to receive compensation for unrealized appreciation as well as realized gains and may create an incentive for FI to make riskier or more speculative investments. Managing accounts that are charged a performance-based fee and accounts that are charged another type of fee, such as a fixed-rate fee, presents certain conflicts of interest in managing these accounts at the same time. There is an incentive to favor performance-based fee accounts. FI’s policies and procedures have been developed to ensure that all clients are treated fairly and equally, and without regard to the fee type in determining trade allocation. Refer to the Order Aggregation section below. FI reviews trade aggregation and allocations policies and procedures at least annually to ensure adherence to firm procedures and that no client is being systematically favored.

Types of ClientsDescription

FI has a global client base of diverse investors including corporations, retirement plans, public and multi-employer pension funds, foundations, endowments, governments, investment companies, and high-net-worth individuals across America, Europe, Canada, Australia, Asia, and the Middle East.

Account Minimums

At present, the FIIG separate account minimum is USD $10,000,000, but smaller accounts may be accepted at FI's discretion. FIIG commingled vehicle minimums are typically set at USD $5,000,000, but smaller investments may be accepted at FI's discretion.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of LossMethods of Analysis

FI uses both qualitative and quantitative tools to analyze markets, sectors, and securities. FI makes extensive use of computers, computer peripherals, software, and computer databases in screening for securities worthy of investment consideration. FI uses a centralized portfolio management system, which includes block trading, portfolio management, and securities price data collection.

Investment Strategies

FIIG clients' accounts are generally managed separately with their underlying investment strategies, restrictions, or investment limitations defined within the investment management agreement. Investors within the funds managed by FI described in the Affiliations section below are managed according to the investment strategy defined in the offering documents.

The asset allocation decision for participants in plans using the Personalized Retirement Outcomes services is determined based on various factors made available to FI by the retirement plan or its service provider. Such factors include age, salary, savings rate, account balance, state income tax rate, pension income, and gender as it relates to expected longevity. Participants will also provide additional information, such as spouse's age, other income sources, outside investments, goals, and health status. These additional factors are provided through an interactive online questionnaire and will impact how FI allocates the participant's account among stock and bond funds. The funds used in the Personalized Retirement Outcomes services are either bank maintained collective funds advised by FI or registered investment companies managed by FI.

Risk of Loss

Investing in capital markets involves risk of loss that each client should be prepared to bear. Investing in foreign stock markets involves additional risks including political, economic, and currency risks, and differences in accounting methods. Investing in fixed income instruments may involve certain costs and risks such as liquidity risk, interest rate risk, and credit risk. Portfolios investing in derivatives could lose more than the principal amount invested in those instruments. There can be no guarantee that a portfolio will meet its investment objectives or that it will not suffer losses.

Disciplinary InformationLegal and Disciplinary

There have been no disciplinary events and no material legal events related to FI or any management person.

Other Financial Industry Activities and AffiliationsFinancial Media

Ken Fisher, Michael Hanson, Aaron Anderson, and other senior members of the firm are regular contributors to various media and publications globally. Fisher Investments can hold some or all of the securities mentioned in a particular article in client portfolios.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics and Personal Trading

Ethics and integrity are the bedrock on which the rest of our business is built. When designated employees and contractors of FI and its subsidiaries invest for their own accounts, conflicts of interest may arise between clients and employees. As an investment adviser and mutual fund adviser, FI is subject to Rule 204A-1 of the Advisers Act and Rule 17j-1 of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended. To comply with these requirements, FI has adopted a Code of Ethics containing provisions reasonably necessary to prevent its "Access Persons," as defined in the Code of Ethics, from engaging in any act, practice or course of business prohibited by these Rules. The Code of Ethics addresses investments by Access Persons in securities with particular rules for initial public offerings and limited offerings.

In accordance with FI's Code of Ethics, all Access Persons are required to have most security transactions, including all common stock, options, corporate bonds, exchange traded funds, and trades in mutual funds where FI is the sub-adviser to the fund company approved in advance by designated personnel involved in the trading process. Access Persons and FI Principals have bought, owned, and sold securities in various publicly traded corporations, including those held and traded in clients' accounts or in the funds managed or advised by FI.

Access Persons and Principals may hold securities, which were purchased previous to their employment with FI, and are now still held. Access Persons and Principals whose accounts are managed by FI may participate in block transactions placed for clients. Additionally, Access Persons and Principals must submit all brokerage statements, which reflect transactions for their benefit, to ensure this policy is implemented according to stated objectives. FI will provide a copy of its Code of Ethics upon request.

In addition to these explicit policies, we also stress ethics in our company vision statement, which states that "our quest requires delivering unparalleled service, continuous education, and appropriate solutions to our clients and always considering their interests first." Likewise, ethics and integrity are a core component of employee performance reviews, where they are listed as an explicit competency and factor directly into performance evaluations.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

FI imposes restrictions upon itself, and all managed accounts that have a relationship with an FI Access Person or Principal, to ensure the clients' interests are considered before the interests of FI or any person associated with FI. Such accounts are called proprietary accounts. They will trade in block trades with or after non-proprietary clients. Exceptions may be made to liquidate certain previously held equity positions in proprietary accounts that cannot be blocked with non-proprietary clients provided a determination is made that no non-proprietary client will be disadvantaged. All proprietary clients are aware of such trading practices. At no time will transactions be effected in any manner such that FI or the FI Access Person could benefit at the expense of a non-proprietary client.

Political Contributions

FI personnel may make personal contributions to support political candidates or elected officials, including candidates who may share the firm's views on issues related to its business interests. Designated personnel are responsible for ensuring that their political activities comply with applicable laws restricting political contributions and solicitations, as well as FI's policies and procedures.

Brokerage Practices

Selecting Brokerage Firms

FI generally determines both the brokers to be used to effect transactions for clients and the commissions at which those transactions are to be effected. Brokers are selected on the basis of the clients' interests and desires and FI's assessment of their execution and other services relative to the commission charged for each trade. FI evaluates brokers' fees and commission rates in light of rates other advisers could readily obtain from brokers in general for similar transactions.

Each client's investment advisory agreement generally gives FI full authority to determine (without obtaining client consent or consulting with the client on a transaction-by-transaction basis) the brokers or dealers through which all transactions for the client's account will be executed. A client may, however, direct FI in writing to execute transactions for the client's account through a specified broker or dealer (the "Specified Broker"). A client may choose to direct FI to execute transactions through a Specified Broker if, for example, the client will be receiving investment management consulting services from such Specified Broker.

Best Execution

Where a client authorizes FI to select the brokers and/or dealers through which transactions for the client's account are executed, FI allocates transactions to brokers and/or dealers for execution on such markets at such prices and at such commission rates (which may be in excess of the prices or commission rates that might have been charged for execution on other markets or by other brokers or dealers) as in the good faith judgment of FI are appropriate. FI considers the selection of brokers and/or dealers based not only on the available prices and rates of brokerage commissions, but also other relevant factors which can include:

- (a) the execution capabilities of the brokers and/or dealers;
- (b) the size of the transaction;
- (c) the difficulty of execution;
- (d) the operational facilities of the brokers and/or dealers involved;
- (e) the risk in positioning a block of securities;
- (f) the quality of the overall brokerage and research services provided by the broker and/or dealer; and
- (g) research (including economic forecasts, investment strategy advice, fundamental and technical advice on individual securities, valuation advice and market analysis), custodial, trade generation and management software, and other services provided by such brokers and/or dealers which are expected to enhance FI's general management capabilities;

FI may cause a client's account to pay a broker or dealer a higher amount of commission for effecting a transaction for the client's account than another broker or dealer would have charged for effecting that same transaction if FI determines in good faith that the amount of commission is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services provided by the broker or dealer, viewed in terms of either the particular transaction or FI's overall responsibilities with respect to the accounts for which FI exercises investment discretion.

Where a client directs FI to effect transactions for the client's account through a Specified Broker, FI does not negotiate brokerage commissions with respect to transactions executed by the Specified Broker for the client's account. Rather, the client and the Specified Broker agree on the commission rate that the Specified Broker will charge for transactions effected for the account. As a result, the client may pay higher commissions than those paid by FI's clients who have not directed FI to execute transactions through a specified broker or dealer depending upon:

- (a) the client's arrangement with the Specified Broker;
- (b) such factors as the number of securities, instruments, or obligations being bought or sold for the client, whether round or odd lots are being acquired for the client, and the market for the security, instrument or obligation; and
- (c) the fact that the client will be foregoing any benefit from savings on execution costs that FI may obtain for its clients through negotiating volume commission discounts on batched transactions.

In addition, the client may not receive the lowest available price with respect to certain transactions effected for the client's account. Conflicts exist between the client's interest in receiving best execution on transactions effected for its account and FI's interest in receiving future client referrals or soft-dollar benefits from the Specified Broker to the extent the Specified Broker refers clients to FI. FI believes that no conflict of interest that is detrimental to the client will result, since through full disclosure, the clients will have the opportunity to determine what brokerage arrangement is in their best interests. Clients that restrict the use of soft dollars or the ability to execute trades for their accounts away from their custodian through a prime broker services agreement may receive lower commissions for certain trades, but may also be traded separately in a less advantageous manner than those trades which can be aggregated with other accounts that allow for soft dollar trades and prime brokerage. Smaller size and certain other accounts are not eligible for prime brokerage.

Soft Dollars

Under FI's "Section 28(e)" soft dollar policies, our research and trading departments use research products and services (such as Bloomberg, MSCI, FactSet, , and other research data services) used in the investment decision making process. FI also uses pre-trade and order execution/brokerage products and services (such as Eze Software, Transaction Network Services, Omgeo CTM and other services) to effect securities transactions and perform trading and settlement functions. These products and services are provided by or paid by broker-dealers through which FI executes clients' trades. FI will also make an allocation and pay for the reasonable value of those research and trading services it uses for purposes other than making investment decisions or effecting trades for clients.

Most broker-dealers that custody client assets or effect securities transactions provide their own research services such as reports, access to website materials, and access to their analysts. In some cases FI uses that research if it is believed to be useful and of reasonable value. In other cases FI receives unsolicited research from those broker-dealers that may be considered a soft-dollar benefit even if the research is not requested or used by FI.

Generally speaking, all of FI's clients benefit from research services provided to FI by the brokers and dealers who effect transactions for FI's client accounts. Not all such research services, however, may be used by FI in connection with the client accounts that paid commissions to the brokers or dealers providing such research services. In addition, instances may arise where: (a) research services obtained in connection with transactions effected for a particular client's account will typically benefit other clients of FI whose commissions have not been used to pay for such research services or who do not allow use of commissions to generate soft dollar benefits; and (b) not all research services may be used by FI after payment of commissions by clients. FI's receipt of research services from brokers and dealers that effect transactions for FI's client accounts does not reduce FI's customary research activities. FI may execute trades with higher commissions than those obtainable from other brokers as a result of its soft dollar arrangements.

Order Aggregation

FI has adopted the following allocation policy and procedure for aggregating advisory clients' trade orders.

- Orders will not be aggregated unless aggregation is consistent with our best execution duty and the applicable advisory agreements.
- No advisory account will be consistently favored over any other account.
- Before entering an aggregated order, an electronic summary of the allocation shall be made in connection with that order.

FI's IPC determines the securities to be purchased and sold in client accounts where FI acts with discretion. FI will aggregate all orders directed by the IPC by custodian and/or business segment (e.g., Institutional, including 401(k) Solutions, and Private Client Group) for trade routing.

- When transactions are aggregated into blocks:
 - The actual execution prices applicable to the aggregated transaction will be averaged, and each client account participating in the aggregated transaction will be deemed to have purchased or sold its share of the security, instrument, or obligation involved at that average price; and,
 - All transaction costs incurred in effecting the aggregated transaction shall be shared on a pro rata basis among all participating accounts, except to the extent certain broker-dealers that also furnish custody services impose minimum transaction charges applicable to some of the participating accounts. Client direction and restrictions may result in different costs for a particular client.
- If it is expected that an order will take more than one day to complete, transactions for a security or group of securities, the allocation order of accounts must follow a rotation order. For the purposes of determining rotation order, clients are classified into business unit groups (US and Canadian private clients, UK private clients, European private clients, and Institutional). The order in which business units receive allocations changes each time a business unit rotation is used.
- When blocks are partially executed, trades are allocated on a pure prorated basis. Each account is allocated executed shares in direct proportion to its percentage of the overall block order to the nearest round lot (generally 100 shares). Aggregated orders receive one average price per broker. FI may, at its discretion, make small adjustments to accounts with relatively small share counts (generally <1,000 shares) to avoid excessive transaction costs.
- Orders will be allocated on a basis different from the above only if all clients receive fair treatment and the reason for the different allocation is approved by a member of the IPC member in writing. Common reasons for deviations include, but are not limited to, cash balance differences and relative position sizes.
- Client mandated orders are generally segregated from existing blocks and executed at the market. If it is deemed that executing the order at the market may have significant market impact, the order will be executed with discretion.
- Books and records will reflect separately for each account the securities held, bought, and sold.

- Individual investment advice and treatment will be provided to each client's account.
- FI does not participate in initial public offerings and therefore has no allocation policy with respect to such offerings.
- No additional compensation or remuneration of any kind will be received by FI as a result of the procedure.

Trading Errors

Trading errors sometimes happen for various reasons that may or may not be FI's responsibility. FI handles trading errors according to its trade error policy and procedure, including the use of trade error accounts intended to absorb unfavorable consequences of trade errors (as well as favorable consequences when deemed not beneficial to the client) to reduce the chance that clients would be affected. FI aggregates the balances of its error accounts among various broker-dealer and bank custody accounts on a quarterly basis to determine whether to donate aggregate gains to charity or to contribute to one or more accounts for aggregate losses. In any event, the client will always be made whole and soft dollars will never be used to correct trade errors.

Review of Accounts

Periodic Reviews

Account information, including quantities and values of securities held, the amounts of cash and cash equivalents, and account transaction activity for each client, is maintained in FI's computer systems. This account information is reconciled against statements or electronic files from appropriate custodial agents generally daily, but no less than monthly.

Review Triggers

All existing managed accounts are subject to periodic reviews depending on the criteria being evaluated. Most reviews utilize computer-generated exception reports from FI's portfolio management and accounting systems. Cash balance, position count, position size, asset allocation, country weight, and sector weight reports are among the measures periodically evaluated. Additionally, ad hoc reports supplement the review process. FI's Implementation department oversees the daily operations of the existing account review process.

The IPC consists of five members: the Executive Chairman, a Vice Chairman, an Executive Vice President, and two Senior Vice Presidents. They collectively determine firm investment policy and are responsible for managing broad investment strategies. All are actively engaged in securities and capital markets research contributing to the review process.

Regular Reports

Clients receive a monthly or quarterly accounting showing asset value by security, unit cost, total cost, cash balances, current per share values, etc. Clients are urged to compare the quarterly reports provided by FI with those provided by their custodian and notify FI of any differences. Additionally, clients regularly receive Quarterly Reviews, which include the IPC's general economic outlook and current investment trends. Clients are encouraged to phone or write FI as often as they deem necessary to receive information regarding the investment tactics and strategies being followed. Upon specific client request, FI will prepare written portfolio analysis and reports to satisfy the client's informational needs.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Incoming Referrals

From time to time, FI has client referral relationships with outside vendors and/or independent, unaffiliated third-party custodians which provide services that may include custody of securities, trade execution, and clearance and settlement of transactions. Conflicts of interest exist with respect to these referral relationships, as FI may receive certain economic benefits through its participation in these relationships. In addition, FI has an incentive to recommend to clients that their assets be held with the third-party custodians with which FI has referral relationships, although there is no direct link between FI's involvement in referral relationships and the investment advice it gives to its clients. FI also has incentives for its personnel to solicit and refer clients. FI occasionally pays a referral fee to third party solicitors. No referral fee is paid unless a signed contract is executed and the prospective client signs a disclosure form that contains the details of the referral agreement. FI's participation in referral relationships does not reduce or eliminate FI's fiduciary duties to put the interests of its clients first and seek best execution in securities transactions on behalf of its clients.

Other Compensation

FI has obligations under referral programs with custodians with respect to certain clients, including certain clients who become clients of FI as part of its merger and acquisition activities. Pursuant to such programs, FI is obligated to pay the custodian an ongoing fee, usually as a percentage of the fees billed to the account or a percentage of the assets in the account, with a one-time fee generally payable in the event the account is transferred away from such custodian. Since the one-time fee is generally higher than the ongoing fee, FI will have an incentive to maintain the account at the existing custodian.

FI receives very limited income from speaking, writing, and royalties—all related to finance and investing. Ken Fisher receives royalties from his books. In addition, FI currently receives income for books published under Fisher Investments Press, an imprint series published by John Wiley & Sons, Inc.

Custody

Account Statements

FI is not a broker-dealer and does not take possession of client assets. FI client assets are housed in internationally recognized brokerage firms, otherwise known as custodians. FI has a limited power of attorney to place trades on the client's behalf. The custodian will issue trade confirmations and monthly statements directly to clients, while the client's account will be managed by FI. Clients are urged to compare the information in the quarterly statements they receive from FI with the statements provided by their custodian.

Financial Statements

FI acts strictly as an investment adviser to the US and CAD private funds. The Funds have an independent custodian and trustee. Financial statements are audited by an independent public accountant and distributed by FI to all investors within the required US and Canadian regulatory time limits.

Investment Discretion

Discretionary Authority for Trading and Limited Power of Attorney

FI generally has limited power of attorney to act on a fully discretionary basis on clients' behalf. When such limited powers exist between FI and a client, FI chooses the amount and type of securities to be bought and sold to satisfy account objectives. This is the case with most of FI's clients. Additionally, FI accepts any reasonable limitation or restriction to such authority placed by the client. Refer to the Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss section above. All limitations and restrictions placed on accounts must be provided to FI in writing.

The bank-maintained collective funds advised by FI are managed by SEI Trust Company ("SEI"), a trust company organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and regulated by the Pennsylvania Department of Banking. SEI serves as trustee and maintains ultimate discretionary authority over the collective funds.

Voting Client Securities

Proxy Votes

Generally, except to the extent that a client otherwise instructs FI in writing, FI will vote (by proxy or otherwise) on all matters for which a shareholder vote is solicited by, or with respect to, issuers of securities beneficially held in client accounts in such manner as FI deems appropriate in accordance with its written policies and procedures. These policies and procedures set forth guidelines for voting (or abstaining from voting) many typical proxy proposals. FI regularly reviews these guidelines. In certain instances the IPC will determine it is in the client's best interests to vary from the guidelines or the proxy issue will require individual case-by-case consideration under the guidelines. Where a proxy proposal raises a material conflict of interest between the interests of FI and its clients, FI will vote in accordance with the guidelines where FI does not have discretion to vary from the guidelines. Alternatively, FI will obtain voting direction from Institutional Shareholder Services ("ISS"), an independent third party proxy service provider, disclose the conflict of interest to the client and abstain from voting, or obtain client consent prior to voting the securities. Clients may obtain a copy of FI's proxy voting policies and procedures and/or information on how FI has voted the client's securities by written request to FI. There may also be a variety of corporate actions or other matters for which shareholder action is required or solicited and with respect to which FI may take action that it deems appropriate in its best judgment except to the extent otherwise required by agreement with the client. These actions may include, for example and without limitation, tender offers or exchanges, and bankruptcy proceedings. Unless FI otherwise agrees in writing, FI will not have any duty or obligation to advise or take any action on behalf of clients in any legal proceedings, including bankruptcies or class actions, involving securities held in or formerly held in the account or the issuers of securities. At the client's written request, FI will assist with administrative matters regarding any settlement or judgment.

Financial Information

Financial Condition

FI does not require or solicit prepayment of fees. FI is currently not in, nor has been historically in, a financially precarious situation, or the subject to a bankruptcy petition.

Additional Information: Fair Valuation

In separate accounts and certain funds FI manages, FI is responsible for determining the fair value of illiquid securities and other holdings in the unlikely event a price is not readily available or after a significant event materially affects the value of a security between the time of its last sale on the exchange or market in which the security trades, and the US market close. FI's Valuation Committee meets as necessary when a price is not readily available and will determine if the value of a security should be re-evaluated to reflect a more current fair market value. Custodians for some clients have alternative valuation procedures that will apply to accounts managed by FI. Some funds, including the collective funds advised by FI, are subject to the valuation policies of their trustee or administrator.
